Introduction

This leaflet is intended for patients who have recently had braces fitted. Taking care of your braces is important for straightening your teeth.

Why look after your braces

Orthodontic treatment is a way of straightening or moving teeth, to improve the appearance of the teeth and how they work. This process can take longer if you do not look after your braces properly. Not looking after your braces can lead to damage to your braces. Damage to your braces can cause you;

- pain and discomfort.
- unwanted tooth movement and treatment may take longer.

Poor cleaning can lead to the development of unsightly white or brown marks or cavities on the fronts of the teeth around the brace.

If you fail to stick to the advice that can improve your oral hygiene or if your oral hygiene is poor, orthodontic treatment will need to be stopped.

How to look after your braces

Diet and braces

The brackets and wires that we use are fragile. Eating the wrong foods can break them. This can cause you pain and discomfort and or unwanted tooth movement.

Avoid hard, crunchy or sticky foods that could damage, break or dislodge the brace, for example:

- Raw apples
- Raw carrots
- Hard chocolate
- Corn on the cob
- Chewing gum
- Nuts
- Toffees, caramels or sweets
- Pizza crust
- Fried chicken on the bone and spare ribs

Choose foods which are softer such as:

- Soup
- Pasta or rice dishes
- Yoghurts
- Cheese
- Soft fruit or vegetables
- Lentil or noodle dishes

Avoid fizzy drinks during treatment as they can cause damage to your teeth.

Choose water between meals to prevent damage to teeth and gums.

The British Orthodontic Society has a brace friendly recipe booklet that can be downloaded from:

All food should be cut up small and eaten on the back teeth.

Cleaning

Keep your teeth and braces as clean as possible using a manual or electric toothbrush.

Tiny, tufted (Interdental) brushes made to get into the small spaces between the teeth and plaque search tablets can also be used as needed. It is important to clean any food and plaque off your teeth and braces. This is to stop tooth decay and minimise the risk of developing unsightly marks or cavities on the fronts of teeth around the brackets.

Checking

Regularly check your braces and teeth to make sure nothing is broken.

You should also keep regular appointments with your own dentist to make sure your oral health remains as good as possible during brace treatment.

What to do if you have a problem with your braces

Ring the Orthodontic and Restorative Dentistry department on 0116 250 2648.

Explain the problem and ask for an appointment to have the braces fixed.

It is important that we sort out any problems as soon as possible . This lowers the possibility of lengthy treatment brought on by problems with your braces.

Please bear in mind that there may be a wait when you attend for urgent appointments as clinics are always busy with planned routine appointments.

Use orthodontic wax

Orthodontic wax (also called dental wax or braces wax) can sometimes help with discomfort.

You will be given orthodontic wax when you visit the department. Place the orthodontic wax over the broken part of the brace to minimise discomfort before you are able to see the orthodontist.
