What is surveillance?

Surveillance means “close observation”. We sometimes call it “active monitoring”.

It means that we will see you in clinic, talk to you on the telephone and arrange imaging (X-rays and scans) to keep a close eye on your mesothelioma. Your scans will be arranged at regular intervals.

We try to keep the time between attending for scans and coming to the hospital to discuss the results to a minimum as we know that this can be an anxious time for you.

Imaging appointments

You will receive appointments for X-rays and scans through the post. If you need to change these appointments, please contact the booking line on 0116 258 8765 (option 3). Have your Leicester hospital number ready (starts with letter S).

There needs to be a least seven working days between your imaging and your clinic appointment so that the results are ready for us to discuss with you at the appointment.

If this is not the case, please let us know so that we can change your appointment:

Professor Fennell’s clinic co-ordinator 0116 258 6210
